WASBINGTON NEWS. The Fishery Question-Virginia's Contemp

WASHINGTON, D. C., October 18. - Secretar Bayard was seen last night and asked to set at rest the contradictory statements printed relative to the policy of the State Department relative to the policy of the State Department on the fisheries question. He said: "This matter is not one that can be settled in a breath, but is one of such gravity and importance that time should be taken in consideration. The State Department proposes to take all proper time to consider it and does not intend to blunder through haste. It is a question which has been entertained through the history of this country for a hundred years, for it is really a question as to whether our relations with Canada shall be neighborly and friendly, or whether they shall be the other extreme with both nations standing ready to take advantage of the other. The policy of the State Department has not been determined on fully, and can only be as the case develops itself. Personally I wish and hope to settle the thing annicably, but the United States must have her rights. The thing to be determined, therefore, is what are the rights of American fishermen in Canadian waters? When that has been determined then and then only will I be able to determined what course it is best to pursue to secure those rights."

By Telegraph to the Post-DISPATCH BOSTON, Mass., October 18 .- There was sor in the camp of the champions of the world last night. The defeat of yes-terday at Philadelphia was the last straw that broke the camel's back of Capt. Comiskey's woes, and on the trip from the Quaker City to the Hub the captain consulted with his men in a spirit of friend-weakness lay. "The club," said Comiskey, "is not win ing as it should. We are not playing the game we can, although we are playing a good game. I do not believe that Latham ever played the base ball in his life that he is playing now. I do not think that Caruthers ever pitched as he has pitched in these games. O'Neil is making a record for himself in the field. Welch is doing as well as he ever hid. Robindoing as well as he ever hid. Robinson, too. In fact individually the team is playing strong ball, but when it comes to a whole we can't win. According to the ball we have played and the record we have made we ought to have the majority of these made we ought to have the majority of these consists of the Executive Boards of the Manugames. I know that they have good pitchers and good fielders, but it breaks my heart to go out on the field to lose to these fellows when we are beating them at their strongest points. Seems funny, don't it?" Comiskey heaved along sigh and looked thoroughly miserable. The Browns are now in that dangerous condition which tempts them to look around and experiment. They are looking and experimenting now. They are asking themselves, How can we win? And there does not seem to be any sat isfactory solution immediately forthe The players seem discouraged and act and tall as though it were a foregone conclusion that they are bound to lose the series. When asked the question, somewhat tantaliz-ing under the circumstances, "What do you think about it?" they shrug their shoulders, elevate their eyebrows and answer: "We don' know.'

prevails among them to a nauseating extent and worst of all their hearts are in their boots. The first open confession of their fears was the laying off of Shortstop Gleason. This action was a mistake and it appears that the management has already realized it. Lyons is a nice little player. He is a good fielder and can hit now and then, but he is not the old war-horse that can successfully play so important a position as short-field to a selection of such to make the celebrated Detroit team. He can play with confidence against a team like Cleveland, which is half beaten by the name of the champions, but Detroit is playing for blood, and Lyons apprethe situation to the He showed it yesterday. He tried hard to be nonchalant but he looked nervous. Besides that he was a little unfortunate in receiving bad coaching. Comiskey saw that the difficulty with Lyons who, althou he played a good game, made the stone wall look a little weak with his position. Whateve he may do in fielding the position, he can never doctors are slightly hopeful that he will recover, but fear his advanced age and physical weakness may operate against this hope. The

"Will you put Gleason back at short-stop?"

same frame of mind that I am in now. I will do it, though. Comiskey and I have not yet thoroughly decided just what we will do in through his head. He was well known and this respect. We both favor it, though." Caruthers is anxious to pitch in every game, and feels confident of winning. This he has done from the start, and if Bobby realiy intends to quit the Browns next year, he evidently intends to make a brilliant record for himself before he goes away. When he pitches a hard game his right arm is doubled up like a carpen-ter's square, but Caruthers has a heroic remedy for it which he claims to have discovered him self and which he uses all the time. He soaks it for two hours after supper in almost scalding like butter." Bobby will certainly do his best close to a sure thing on the series. But three little games stand between her and her much-coveted title. Mr. Sterns wants the CHARLESTON, W. Va., October 18. - News hat Dan Cunningham, the Eureka been instigator having the robbery of Rev. Mr. Ryan and others, in Roane and Jackson Counties, was caught yesterday and lynched last night by the vig-liants. This is a rumor that seems to have dants. This is a rumor that seems to have foundation, from what your correspondent can learn. It is certain that there were only seven engaged in the murder and robbery of Rev. Mr. Ryan. Of this number the vigilants have disposed of Coon, lynched; George Duff, Jr., shot in making arrests; Bob Duff, shot and throat cut after arrest; and brake, hung on the way to jail at Spencer. The two Duffs, Coon and Drake confessed and said that Cunningham and his nephew were the two not caught. All arrests made by the vigilants were upon warrants. Bob Duff, just before his death, begged that Drake should not be harmed, as he was forced by Coon to go with them. Excitement still runs high, and it is evident that others will be arrested for the murder. When Bob Duff was shot one of the vigilants went to his body and cut his throat, saying: "This is a remembrance of the young lady school-teacher you killed for her money." It appears that a lady school teacher was killed for her money in the upper part of Roane County some months ago, and I am told that a warrant was out for Bob Duff charging him with the erime. A special runner sent out by the Associated! Press from this city will return to-night with full particulars.

At Fifth and Walnut streets he came up with her and spoke, saying "Good evening, Miss Witte." She stopped and told him to attend to his own business. Then he crossed over to a liquor store, and she also crossed the street. This was at Fifth and Market streets. They met again and she accused him of following her, and threatened to have him arrested if he did not desist. He told her he was not following her, and that she might go on her way. Then he returned home. This morning her two brothers were laying in wait for him, and asked him why he annoyed their sister and followed her about. He said he had met a young lady next door up town, but had not followed her. As he backed into his yard they rushed through the gate and both attacked him. One grabbed him at either side and both struck him. He had an open pocket-knife in his hand, and fearing personal injury from them stabbed one of the boys, and they left him. He did not intend to hurt them much but wanted to save himself from personal injury.

of this m weather. A little girl living next door with his friends was in the habit of coming over here to play, and he used to make an excuse to call for her. I did not wish to make his acquaintance, and accordingly sent the little girl home before it got dark. He sent a note to me, but I burned it right away, and told the little girl who brought it that I must be excused from answering his notes. He invited me to go to the theater but I told him I did not go to places of amusement since the death of my parents. He made several propositions to call but I replied that I was not receiving company. When his messages came by the little girl who offered to whisper them to me I had her announce the message out loud in the dining-room, and sent my answers in that way. This ought to be enough to show him I did not want to become any more intimately acquainted with lim. Last night finished it. I went down town or some business for my brother. The Missouri Grand Lodge of the Knights of ANNIE LACHS FINED $50 FOR ASSAULTING MRS. CLEVELAND.

> The Historical Pancake Case Comes Up Before Judge White This Morning-Not a Large Audience-The Story of the Pancake Related by Several Witnesses-Mrs. Lachs Wanted Grover and Frankie to Appeal Taken.

The case of Annie Lax, alias Sax, alias Knox, The case of Annie Lax, alias Sax, alias Knox, alias Lachs, the woman who threw the historic pancake at Mrs. Cleveland, was finally brought to trial in the Second District Police Court this morning. Mrs. Lachs, it will be remembered, threw a pancake at the Presidential party as it was driving through the Fair Grounds on the afternoon of Tuesday of Fair week. The cake, which was of the ample German variety and exuded grease from evey pore, struck Mrs. Cleveland on the arm, making a slight stain on the sleeve of the pretty green dress she wore. Mayor Francis gallantly lifted the cake from the pretty dress and dropped it into the road, but the shock incident to the affair, and particularly the uncertainty as to the context of the widow for the value of the stock at the time that the contract for purchase was made. There was no will leit by Mr. Leggett, and his property prior to his decense was for the greater part voluntarity assigned to his wife and family. He was in debt to his father-in-law at the time of his last illness and was legally advised that any ante-mortem disposition of his property so long as there were debts would be held invalid. Judge Seddon decides that Mr. Kalmes is entitled to a decree against the widow for the value of the stock at the time that the contract for purchase was made. THE CASE OF MRS. LACHS was reached about 10:30. Mrs. Lachs, who appeared on the records of the court as 'Mrs. Knox,' sat without the raining. She is not a lady who would create a sensation in a community of dudes. She is neither beautiful nor voiuptuous in appearance. Her figure possesses certain angularities which are supposed to be indications of age, and her cheek-bones stand up like guide-posts on a country highway. Her nose is rather broad and flat and her complexion is a veritable pancake complexion—sallow and dyspeptic. Mrs. Lachs does not smile; at least she did not smile this morning. Perhaps she smiled on the morning of October 4, but if she did no evidence was offered in proof of the fact. Mrs. Lachs' attire might have been termed elegant. She wore a dress ofdark blue goods, the front laid off in broad pleats, decorated on either side with a row of large steel buttons. Over her shoulders she wore a black silk cape, heavily fringed. A black straw hat covered with black plumes topped off this costume. On her fingers she wore two plain band rinas, presumably gold, and a large seal ring. Mrs. Lachs maintained a severe composure through all the early proceedings, and she only lost her equanimity when the evidence which ultimately criminated her was introduced.

first witness called. Mr. Lanham gave his evidence smilingly, and with an occasional

Mrs. Sachs was standing on the Secretary's platform—that is the platform surrounding the Secretary's office, when President Cleveland and Mayor Francis and Mrs. Cleveland came riding by. Mrs. Lachs threw a pancake which struck Mrs. Cleveland on the left arm. Then she ran through the crowd to booth No. 1.

Herbert W. Adams, the Prosecuting Attornov, vantured to ask if the cake was of the St.

the booth, but he did not know whether she was hiding or not.

The next witness, Chas. Klotter, was not in court. Mr. Adams announced that the marshal had gone after him. Counsel for the defense offered to admit Mr. Klotter's evidence in corroboration of what Mr. Lanham had said without waiting for Mr. Klotter to put in an appearance, but Judge White thought that Mr. Klotter had better appear. So there was a tedious wait until he should come. During the wait, Mr. Lanham testfiled at the Judge's suggestion that Mrs. Lachs' face, at the time the pancake was thrown, was turned in the direction of the carriage in which Mrs. Cleveland was sitting.

When Mr. Klotter finally put in an appearance, his testimony proved to be of little value. He was standing on the front of the platform about the Secretary's office and when the President and his party were seen approaching, the crowd took off their hats to hurrah (with the accent on the "hur). While they were engaged in this patriotic undertaking he saw the bancake strike Mrs. Cleveland, and Mrs. Lachs, who was behind, rud away. After her arrest he heard Mrs. Lachs say that she had thrown the cake in fun.

FAILED TO CONNECT.

Mr. Watson, attorney for Mrs. Lachs, here made a strong effort to have her discharged on the ground that the misdemeanor if any, was that of throwing a missile. Mr. Watson failed to connect. The ordinance, the Judge said, referred to "violent, tumultuous, offensive or obstreperous" conduct. Mr. Watson claimed that the cake had been "jostled up in the air" and not thrown at the carriage. Mr. Watson was again overruled and he retired to his seat somewhat demoralized.

Mrs. Lachs was then put on the witness stand. She addressed the Judge in a sweet, low tone and a pronounced dialect. Her tone was one of deep grief. She had not thrown the cake at Mrs. Cleveland and had not intended to throw it at her. It was "just a little bit of a piece—one-half of a quarter plece of pancake." She did not feel like eating it and so she just threw it away. She could not see why she should throw it at Mrs. Cleveland, the lady had never done her any harm. She did not see the carriage coming when she threw the cake.

Mr. Adams endeavored to trace some copnection between the wearing of the Grand Army badge and the throwing of the pancake, but Mrs. Lachs strenuously denied that she had any interest in politics.

but Mrs. Lachs strehuously defined that she had any interest in politics.

THE CRIMINATING EVIDENCE.

Mr. Lanham was here recalled. He said that when arrested Mrs. Lachs had stated that it was the last pancake she had on the stove and she thought she would give it to Mrs. Cleveiand to show her what St. Louis pancakes were like. Mrs. Lachs put in an indignant. "It's no such thing," but was choked off by the Deputy Marshal. The officer confirmed this testimony. The Judge said that this settled in his mind the doubt of Mrs. Lach's intent, which had previously existed there. Believing that the act was unprovoked and malicious, and that the punishment.

should be commensurate with the offense he fined her $50.

Mr. Watson, who had put in an ineffectual appeal for his client, filed a notice of appeal.

BISHOP TUTTLE HAS A SINGULAR EXPE-RIENCE.

Despoiled One Day and Enriched the Next Presentation by the Episcopal Ladies This Afternoon-Gift of a Set of Robes-The Address and the Response-The Bishop's Visit to the East.

Bishop Tuttle of the Episcopal Diocese Missouri has been the most miserable and the happiest man in St. Louis to-day. This statement may appear paradoxical, but it is true And the truth of it is due to a quiet surprise which the ladies of the local parishes in triumphant vindication of their secret-iveness played on him this afternoon. For several months the ladies have been slyly arranging to make the Bishop a present of a new set of Episcopal robes. The robes had been purchased and a favorable time for the presentation was being awaited when a thief in Kansas City comes along and assisted them. Last Saturday morning Bishop Tuttle left a bundle containing his old robes upon a seat in the Union Depot while he stepped to the window to purchase a ticket. He was gone but an instant, but some reduced specu lator had fallen upon the package, and when the Bishop returned to his seat his robes, several good sermons and a prayer-book were in other hands. The Bishop at once enlisted and every effort was made to secure its return, which was a very important matter, as the Bishop leaves to morrow night for the meeting of the Board of Bishops in Philadelphia. When to-day's mails came bringing no tidings of his lost robes, the Bishop was in no easy frame of mind, as he thought of his appearance at the Philadelphia Conclave. Finally, there was no help for it, he said, and Mrs. Tuttle was told to get out a worn set of robes that had been laid away years ago for an emergency. It was a rather seedy-looking set, and the Bishop looked at it ruefully as he thought of Missouri's Bishop appearing in such a covering in the East. He was poudering over the situation and trying to act the philosopher amid such muttered remarks as "What could a Kansas City man want with those robes?" when the doorbell rung. It was time for this afternoon's letter delivery. "Some news from my robes," exciaimed the Bishop as he hastened to the door to receive the expected letter.

It was news from his robes but of an unexpected kind. There on the doorsteps of 2727 Chestnut street stood a company of ladies about as happy as they are generally found in this world. In the midst of them was a large package which was carefully carried into the house. Not responding except with a series of laughs, to the Bishop's "Bless me, what does this mean!" the ladies streamed in at the door like a long line of disconnected sunbeams. There was a surprisingly large number of chairs ready, which convinced the Bishop that his wife was in the conspiracy, the nature of which he knew nothing about till Mrs. E. G. Abadie stepped forward and made the following speech:

Attanta, Ga., October 18.—The morning is bloudy, showing the possibility of rain.
Trains are still oringing in thousands of strangers, yet it is estimated that six or seven thousand of those here last night failed to find beds. The corridors and stairs of the Kimball House, where the President is quartered, had the appearance of a hastily made bivouac. Sleeping forms were lying in all directions upon the floor and stairs. Atlanta is a prohibition town, and despite the crowd and enthusiasm there is very little drunkenness. The Presidential party did not retire until 2 o'clock this morning, it having been found impossible to get their baggage through the crowds and to their rooms earlier.
As a consequence they breakfasted late this morning. At 11 o'clock President Collins and which Mr. H. W. Grady, Vice-President of the Exposition, in a brief but eloquent speech, extended a welcome to the President.

The President replied as follows:

THE PRESIDENT'S SPECH.

"When in 1845 a convention was held in Memphis, in the State of Tennessee, having for its object the development of the resources of the Western and Southern States, one of the most prominent and far-seeing statesmen of the country foretold the future greatness and importance of a point in DeKaib Country, in the State of Georgia, called Atlanta, not far from the village of Decatur. The place was then properly called 'a point,' for Atlanta was then merely a name given to the Tailroad station here, having no fair pretension to being either a village or city. It was two years after this that the name was adopted by the people of the little village of Marthaville, when they proudly acquired a city charter. Experiencing all the incidents and struggles common to municipal growth, it had in 1861 a population of about 13,000. Soon thereafter, the thunders of war sounded all about her and a besieged army occupied her streets and business places. Her buildings and property were destroyed by both armies—the besieged and the besiegers—to such an extent that when the Inhabitants, in December, 1864, returned to the city from which they had been driven, they found their homes wrecked and duried and their city a scene of charred and desolate ruin. Thus it is that the Atlanta of to-day

The city a scene of charred and desolate roin. Thus it is that the Atlanta of to-day may well be said to date from 1850.

"I have lately seen evidences of the activity and perseverance of the people of the United String ettles, and in overcoming difficulties that are inseparable from new settlements and the growth of new cities. But it seems to me that an element of heroism is added by a people who view without despair the destruction they have wrought—who begin again to did the greatest discouragements, evince a determination to reach their destiny. In twenty-two years the second Atlanta has been built incomparably larger, more prosperous, and fairer than the destroyed Atlanta. Her placed if its among the cities business and her large manufacturing interests are evidences of the courage and enterprise of her people. They may well be proud of the work of their hands. Nor shall the glory of their achievements beleft to their sole eratification. All their countymen as here been done is the result of American courage and American enterprise. Surely nothing should stand in the way of such congratulation and the citizen who, seeing these additions to the wealth and progress of the nation, can not now from his heart, and has incess have not been selfabl and circumscribed. and the aggregate of this will make a rich and prosperous neighborhood; list contagion makes a rich and prosperous State. We often hear of a State noted for its excellent products. This is not always the result of fertility of soil or its adaptability, but of the enterprise of its people inaugurating such expositions as this, where they may meet and take counsel and learn of each other. All of Georgia's neighboring States still feel the impulse of the Cotton Exposition of 1881 and that the Piedmont Exhibition may prove of as great benefit as those to the material welfare of the large section of country which has contributed to its success."

As for guarantee funds, the city that raised $75,000 in one afternoon for the G. A. R. Encampment reason that they were higher before we had will promptly meet every proper requirement of that kind. As for convention accommodations of every kind, our Exposition building excels any other structure New Zealand, where labor is scarce and land on the Continent for such purposes, and in no other city can all the delegations and all the following of a National Convention be more comfortably or more conreniently quartered for all the purposes of their sojourn.

But these facts must be impressed on the committee by immediate action, by rganized action. The Mayor, the Merchants' Exchange and the Exposition managers should take the lead in effecting such an organization. Now is the time before other competing cities have got the start of us. ecial Cablegram to the Post-Dispatch.

London, October 18.—The demonstrations o the unemployed in Trafalgar Square resulted in quite a riot yesterday afternoon. The bright sunshiny day brought out some five thousand men and boys, who filled the square, listening to some half a dozen of their number denouncing in a rabid speech the conduct of the police on previous occasions. Walker, who has been the leader hitherto of the unemployed, was not present and the following amusing story is told which accounts for his absence: Sunday, when the procession of homeless and unemployed reached Westminster Abbey, the doors were found to be closed, as they always are during service time. Nothing could persuade the aus-tere-looking verger to open them to the unwashed multitudes who wanted worship there. Walker then made a speech in which he said that it was and had always been the workingmen's fault; that as long as the workingmen allowed the capitalists to get up first in the morning they must put up with those gentlemen occupying the first seat. This offended the tender sensibilities of the throng, who turned upon their former idol with cab bages and carrots. Walker is now brooding over that deepest of all dicta, "He who speaks the truth is at war with all mankind,' and will do so no more.

A FOOLISH ORATOR.

Shortly after mid-day six of the most talkative men in the crowd appointed themselves into committees to wait on the Lord Mayor and discuss with him the situation, but the Lord Mayor was out and his family did not now when he would be in again to the dep utation. The committee then called the Presiding Magistrate, Sir Henry Knight, and said that the men in Trafalgar Square were going to put their names and addresses in a bool o be handed to the Lord Mayor to show that they were honest artisans as they claimed they were. Sir Henry thought it an excellent idea and confessed that from the riotous deminstrations of the past two days he concluded that they were not honest artisans. Then one of their number, a man named White, was called on by Sir Henry to describe the situation. Suddenly elevated to the lofty situation of spokesman, White, to put it mildly, went mad. He said he was really worth about as much money as Rothschild; that he had only embarked in the unemployed movement to give his less-gifted fellow-men the benefit of is brains. Here the other committee gave violent signs of dissent, and, becoming disorderly, they were expelled from the Mansion House. The five comnitteemen then attacked White about his supposed fortune, and demanded that he divide it among his brethren, whereupor he scornfully tossed a sixpence into the crowd which retaliated with cabbages and carrots as they had done with Walker the day before At about 2 o'clock the crowd in the square be came very demonstrative. Several of the speakers said that if they wanted to retain iberty of speech they must KILL SIR CHARLES WARREN. The assemblage numbered fully 6,000 men, and foot passengers and vehicular traffic for the ime was blocked. The police, who on foot and mounted numbering about one thousand two hundred, in and around the square carried revolvers which is not usual. Shortly after 3 o'clock about half the crowd formed in a line and with the now well-known black and red flags commenced walking downward to, ward the Mansion House. In front of the Char ing Cross Railway Station the mounted police charged them, the command of the Inspector that they should return to the square and cease from blocking the traffic having been unheeded. For a moment the mob showed fight, but soon gave way, flying in every direction. Though none of them were hurt by the police, who were careful with their batons, yet in their frantic efforts to get out of the way of the charging bobbies, the fleeing unemployed knocked down and injured a great number of innocent passers-by,

MORE LIES.

In the course of his speech he produced what in his opinion was incontrovertible evi-dence that the bomb had been thrown by an emissary of the New York Stock Exchange. In conclusion he said that there were thousands of millionaires in the United States now, but that there would be few before the end of the year, and the second advent so long heraided was imminent. He added that when things were nice and pleasant in America he was coming back to England to help emancipate the brethren bere from Torylsm.

Seymour, the editor of Justice, followed. The only thing he had against the bombthrowing during the Haymarket rlot was that not enough of them had been thrown. This fact, he thought, was a convincing proof that the bomb had not been thrown by the Anarchists, who were such intelligent men that if they had commenced they would have thrown hundreds of bombs. Comrade George of the Trafalgar Square unemployed workingmen, took all the honors of the evening. He declared that he was tired of best advantage. From dawn until mid-day shillyshallying measures and weak-kneed resolutions. If the comrades really wanted to help the brethren across the water they should do something striking and manly. He, for one, was in favor of killing Minister Phelps. That would give the comrades of Chicago heart. Perhaps then they would see that the only way to bring about a social revolution was to kill all who opposed it, and that the best way to begin was to knife them all, from the scoundrel President Cleveland to the church-going hypocrite, Cyrus McCormick. The meeting then broke up with great applause for Comrade George and groans for the American Constitution. George says he is no relation to Henry George who, he says, is not worthy to tie his shoe latchet.

MAGOOGIN AND ANTI-POVERTY. Meeting at Which Poverty Was Not Se

Very Badly Abolished. By general invitation I attended a meeting of the Anti-Poverty Society Sunday night. I was told that the aggregation of local talent which sails under the before-mentioned name had for its object the abolishment of poverty time that Stratford has heard from the and I went to the meeting to witness them in Queen telegraphically for thirty-five

I took some poverty with me to meet any demand that might be made on the audience for test purposes. I thought some gentleman in evening dress might walk down to the footlights at a seasonable moment in the performance and ask the frontrowers if anybody had a piece of poverty to spare a few minutes as he would like to show them how he could make it abolish. So I landed in the meeting without a cent and kept my hands in my pockets all the time waiting for the head abolisher to come to the front and make his little speech.

There were several people present, but they didn't seem to be so anti on the poverty business as I expected to find them. I don't think there was anybody in the crowd who was antier poverty than I was myself. They all may have had a fair share of it, but the men looked as if they could afford 5-cent cigars, and the women had that languorous, lock-step air which members of their sex possess who would sconer pay a nickel for riding four blocks in a street out than walk a mile on a good, hard stretch of granite payement.

I was confident that I would find a beer saloon under the hall in which the abolishers met, but in this I was thwarted. My hopes had been based on the broad and glistening fact that in nine cases out of ten when a man starts out to abolish poverty he uses fresh and fragrant beer or red rip-roaring whisky for the purpose, which lifts the cloud of adversity from the horizon of the bar keeper, but doesn't take the poverty stains out of the oustomer's clothes to any appreciable extent.

Sometimes the Anti-Poverty people have togo a half block for their drinks, but a saloon at that distance from the seat of abolishing interferes with the symmetry of the meeting and doesn't give the red-nosed man who leads the choir at open air demonstrations nearly as much time to spend with his confreres as he may desire to have.

nearly as much time to spend with his confereres as he may desire to have.

I was disappointed with the nature and result of Sunday night's gathering. Nobody said anything about sweeping poverty from the face of the earth except in a vague and indirect way. They read various papers purporting to be abolishers, but poverty continued to spread its dark wings in my capacious pockets, and there was nary an invitation extended to anybody to walk up to the treasurer of the society and lay aside the robes of centlessness and assume $4$ or more of the society's wealth. robes of centlessness and assume 34 or more of the society's wealth.

THE SHAKSPEARE MEMORIAL

Dedication of Mr. Childs' Gift to the Town of Stratford-on-Avon.

Special Cablegram to the Post-Dispatch STRATFORD ON AVON, October 18.—George W. Childs' memorial to Shakspeare was inaugurated yesterday with much imposing ceremony. Stratford-on-Avon has never held so many strangers within its wails. Hundreds of Americans ran down from London Sunday night and by the early morning trains, taxing to the utmost the somewhat limited facilities of the quiet old town for harboring transient guests. The new Shakspeare House was packed with transatlantic pligrims and some amusement was created by the boniface shouting out, as the weary wayfarers arrived, "Take this young couple up to Romeo and Juliet."
The chambers in the old inn bear the names of the works written by the immortal William —or somebody else. A melancholy American tragedian, lately crushed by the English critics, seemed somewhat put out when shown up to "Hamlet," and an elderly couple from Chi cago did not like their quarters in "Love's Labor Lost." For the first time in two weeks, according to the local weather man, the sun shone in Stratford, setting off the handsome the roads from the surrounding country were thronged with every sort of vehicle, from dog-cart of the gentry to the ox-team of the yokel. The local and neighboring dignitaries bearing up proudly under their massive gold chains and other weighty insignia of office, strode through the broad streets lined with quaint, old-fashioned houses, making A TRULY OLD WORLD PICTURE.

The town crier was much alarmed by the numbers, and told me quietly that some one would have to go home hungry, and that "Lunnon certainly must look deserted." But everyall, none of the many improvident pligrims went home hungry, thanks to the municipal hospitality. When the time came Mayor Hodgson wound up the clock in the stone spire and Henry Irving turned on the first flow of the precious liquid. But the arrival of the Queen's telegram was the sensation of the day, not being on the card, and being quite unexpected. The telegraph operator rushed headlong from the office down to the square, Mr. Phelps' speech was interrupted, and the precious dispatch was read. It was the first Queen telegraphically for thirty-five years. Throughout the day the attending bands of music played with absolute impartiality "God Save the Queen" and "Hail Columbia," while the citizens of the Greater Britain beyond the seas aported miniature Union Jacks in their button-hoies, and the inhabitants of "the tight little isle" were resplendent in stars and stripes. Graceful in its inception, the generous gitt of Mr. Childs was gracefully received, and the ceremonies concluded in the most graceful manner possible by a banquet, which was as excellent in the material way as had been the preceding flow of wit and wisdom. The Stratford folk do not seem to be imbued in the least with any belief in the Baconian theory. In fact, they look upon it as a base attempt to rob their town of one of its chief claims to revenue and repute, and regard it as being inspired by an invidious neighbor.

Special Cablegram to the Post-Dispatch. LONDON, October 18.—The Standard says editorially: "All Englishmen will echo the friendly and just language of the American minister, who was present, and of Mr. Russell Lowell, to whose letter we have referred. Indeed, an Englishman must be hopelessly insane who can think of a citizen of the United States as a stranger, much more as a foreigner, and an American must be deeply affected with spread-eagleism who looks on England as other than his parent country. It is interesting to note the exceeding eagerness of all refined and thoughtful Americans to strengthen the intellectual and historical link that already unites the two peoples on the two sides of the ocean. Our brethren on the other side of the sea have produced numbers of writers and two or three poets whose charm all the world has recognized. But they have not produced—and they never are likely to produce—a Shakspeare. Theirs the future may possibly be, but the past is unquestionably ours. They are welcome to share it with us, and we would be giad to have a share in their future." minister, who was present, and of Mr. Russell

AN EASY FIRST.

ST. LOUIS WINS THE NATIONAL DEMOCRAT-IC CONVENTION ON FIRST BALLOT.

The Favorite Cities-Indianapolis and Boston Want the Convention to Make Their States Certain-How the States in Which Nominations Were Made Have Gone-How Crowds Pay-A Merchant's

The Post-Disparch on Sunday gave the citizens of St. Louis all the information obtainable about the preferences of the National Democratic Committee as to the location of the next convention. There were thirty votes cust by telegraph to this paper, are offered at specially low prices. Call and see.

Correspondents being instructed to see each MERMOD & JACCARD JEWELRY CO., member of the committee and obtain his views. Fifteen, one-half of the number voted, said they would come to St. Louis if the other members of the committee would agree. Six had no choice; six were favorable to Chicago. There was one vote for Indianapolis, one for Cincinnati and one for Boston. The three chance of swinging the committee in the direction of their preferences. The six who have no choice as yet have pleasant recollections of St. Louis, and will be easily induced to see that it now offers superior advantages for the convention. Four of the members who favor Chicago express a preference for St. Louis if the committee does not agree with them in their first choice. Thus practically the votes of twenty-two members out of the whole number are assured to St. Louis at the start of the contest. It is something of an advantage to know that the convention is so nearly obtained, but the decision of the committee has not been made officially as yet, and other cities are trying hard to make the committeemen believe that these committeemen believe that these companies and the start of verying flowers. The six who have the committee the committee that these committees the committee that these committees have not been made officially as yet, and other cities are trying hard to make the committeemen believe that these companies are trying hard to make the committeemen believe that these companies are trying hard to make the committeemen believe that these companies are trying hard to make the committeemen believe that these companies are trying hard to make the committeemen believe that these companies are trying hard to make the committeemen believe that these companies are trying hard to make the committeemen believe that these companies are trying hard to make the committeemen believe that these companies are trying hard to make the committeemen believe that these companies are trying hard to make the committeemen believe that these companies are trying hard to make the committeemen believe that these companies are trying hard to make the committeemen believe that these companies are trying hard to make the committeemen believe that these companies and the the hands of the anterior of creditors for the week. The programme for the earlies are described for make the thread something of the appearance of Fair week other cities possess what they do not have—advantages over St. Louis. A VOTE OF THE PEOPLE could be taken St. Louis would certainly be the choice, as it stands in the peculiar position of being the most hospitable city on the continent. There are practically but two cities in the race, and it will not require oratory to convince the committee of the advantages of St. Louis—over the other leading candidate. Indianapolis has been talked of and Boston, but neither of them have now any chance for obtaining the prize. The argument that both cities are advancing, that the States are uncertain, and the holding of the convention in the largest city in either of those States would have its effect on the election is presuming that the location of the convention does have an effect.

In 1864 the Democratic convention was held at Chicago, where McClellan was nominated. The National Union Republican Convention was held in Baltimore, and there Lincoln was nominated. Illinois went for Lincoln. The Democratic convention was held in New York in 1868, and the State went for Seymour, but Seymour lived in New York and would hardly have been chosen to head the ticket had it not been reasonably sure the State would go with him. Maryland went for Greeley in 1872, and Missouri for Tilden in 1876, but the States are certainly Democratic. The convention of 1880 was held in Cincinnati, yet Ohlo went Republicans and hose several very prominent men who are mentioned for the second place on the National Democratic ticket. Indianaapoits has insufficient hotel accommodations and no suitable hall. Chicago's deficiencies are apparent to over twenty members of the committee, notwithstand by they have been flooded with literature, written and printed, extolling the city on the Chicago River. Boston is so far away from what is now the center of the country, that all the efforts of her business men to attract the convention must be in vain. The secreta communications from friends of committeemen, and when the date of the meeting of the committee approaches, the organization of citizens will be made for the purpose of officially presenting the invitation of the city. The prominent citizens who have been engaged in the work incident to the entertainment of the Grand Army and the President hardly feel, as one put it to-day, that they 'are out of a job.' They are desirous of escaping for an interval the duties incident to such affairs; but when the time arrives will be willing to undertake the work and put it through with characteristic vim.

Said this morning: "I was talking with a business man a little while ago. He said he hoped that there would be no more conventions in St. Louis for a long time. 'Do you want them to go to Chicago, Kansas City, Memphis or other competing points?' I asked. No, 'he said, 'I have never looked at it that way.' If we do not get those conventions other cities do, and the result is to our disadvantage. There is nothing more certain than that St. Louis obtained through her entertainment of the Grand Army and the President advertising that will amount to millions of dollars. That is what should be remembered by citizens who do not see these affairs paying directly for themselves."

THE PROGRAMME FOR THE WEEK AT THE EXPOSITION.

The First Night of the Last Week a Brillian Success-Provision Made for Ladies and Children-Special Features Announced-To-Night's Concert-Notes.

Everything was on hand at the Exposition last evening except the vocal singer, Miss Letitia Fritsch, owing to a misunderstanding with the management. Gilmore filled his two hours with a most entertaining programme; the children under their teacher gave a graceful dance, and the first evening of the last week passed delightfully—the beginning of the rush which always accom-panies the winding up of the season. Thousands of visitors were unable to get into Music-Hall and the price of a seat was to get there early and hold it. The army of the left, however, found plenty to amuse them in the exhibits and passed a pleasant evening, catching a strain now and then from the big band.

To-day the continuation of the stream of is an admirable programme and will doubtless prove brilliantly successful.

Glimore will present the following programme to-night, beginning at 7 o'clock, with an intermission of an hour, from 8 to 9 o'clock:

GEO, FRANCIS TRAIN.

The Eccentric Lecturer Exhibits His Antiat the Apollo Theater. Geo. Francis Train entertained less than two undred people at the Apollo Theater last night. His peculiar rhapsodies about himself based upon topics of current interest in which he manages to assume a directing interest based upon topics of current interest in which the manages to assume a directing interest astonished some who didn't know him and in the end amused all. He had a blackboard and a piece of chalk with which to illiuminate his in lecture and spread himself on a lot of devil-fish diagrams and pothooked pletures of Cleveland and dynamite bombs. Geo. Francis boidily demonstrated that he lays no claims to personal modesty. He rakes in the glory of everything that is supposed to have any glory in it. He declared himself to be the original Phineas Fogg of Jules Verne's "Around the World in Eighty Days," the man whom Bulwer selected for the model of Margrave of "The Strange Story," the organized the Combune and who gave Cluseric 250 francs to buy his first military suit, the head and front of Fenianism and Nihlism, and now the chief demon of Anarchy. He said he had come west for the purpost of being shot or hung and he asked all those in favor of his being shot or hung to say "aye." One man said it very lustily and Train smiled. Several questions were put to him and he disposed of Henry George and T. V. Powderly as gignattic frauds. He said 68,000 jackasses had voted for George last year in New York, which elicited and the plantage of the country and would and said Blaine was worse, and assured the say going out of the country and would and said Blaine was worse, and assured the say going out of the country and would and said Blaine was worse, and assured the say going out of the country and would and said Blaine was worse, and assured the say going out of the country and would and said Blaine was worse, and assured the say going out of the country and would and said Blaine was worse, and assured the say going out of the country and would and said Blaine was worse, and assured the say going out of the country and would and said Blaine was been held in heavy bonds.

Modes & Kelly restored by a fall frames good and cheap. 820 Pine at his best during a frenzied wrestle with freech, "de me faire I hononeur a makay unspaiche.

Le jour de la gloire est arrive."

When Train landed on the first line of the "Marsellaise" it had the same effect on him as if he had stepped upon the steeple-end of a tack. He flung his arms and rolled his eyes and danced around the stage like a madman. The effort pleased his audience. They roared and cheered. After several exciting threats against modern society should the Chicago Anarchists be hung, he distributed boutonnieres and grapes among several children in the front row, and the circus was over.

THE PAN ELECTRIC SUIT.

WASHINGTON, D. C., October 18 .- The suit of J. Harris Rogers vs. Attorney-General Gar-land et al. will soon come up for trial on apout of an old-fashioned Donnybrook Fair peal before the Supreme Court of the District.

Mr. Garland offered no objection to Mr. Roger the 14th inst. On the night of the 13th, the ers' bill, and joined with him in his prayer for employes of the Olive street line gave a dance a dissolution of the partnership of the Pan on the co-operative plan in a vacant house at Electric Company. The others, however, in-pondent as to the probable whereabouts of the papers, Mr. Chandler said:

"I am placed in a very awkward position through my inability to account for these documents. The court holds the receipt of my clerk and I am, of course, responsible for them. They are not in my custody, however, nor do! know where they are. I must have had them at some stage of the proceedings, but am confident that I turned them over to one of the attorneys in the case. I have made diligent search and have inquired of every one concerned with the case, but as yet without being able to find a trace of them. Their disappearance is decidedly mysterious and embarrasses me in no smail degree.

"As to the ability of the complainant to go on with the trial without the original papers, I would like to make a short statement. When the last term of the court adjourned, our case was within one or two of the head of the docket, and we had confidently expected to be able to try it at once. At that time Mr. Rogers made no point as to the absence of the papers, though they had been taken from the court some weeks before. Now, however, he comes forward and says that he cannot go to trial until the papers are produced. I have made him a proposition whiel I consider entirely fair. I have a certified copy of the original bill which, together with certain printed exhibits, constituted the record in the case. I have told Mr. Rogers that I will allow him to attach any copies of these documents which he may have, or which he may prepare, and will agree to consider them the original papers. There is but a single document among them of any special importance, the agreement between Mr. Rogers and his associates in the Pan Electric Company. That has already been printed in full, and was filed in the Supreme Court of the District, February 2, 1881. A dozen copies of the chief exhibits are now in the possession of Mr. Rogers, who is able to go on with the case at any time, if he simply wishes to have it tried on its merits."

Whatever difference between the Thistle and the Volunteer the third conflict may determine, the question of supremacy is settled. Centerboard has beaten keel. It may be, when the nautical scientists come to overhaul the Thistle, that they will find that she is overmasted and overboomed, but it is exceedingly doubtful whether even a radical alteration in her sail plan would bring her and the Volunteer together.

We shall have to try again. For the matter of that we are going to. A new second-classer is to be built on the Clyde, and another attempt will be made next year to restore the America cup to Great Britain. (I suppose, since Scotland is taking such a prominent place in these matters, I must not say England.) One point: There has been some discussion concerning the bottom of the Thistle. Had the condition which that was in anything to do with her bad sailing, especially in the first match? It is generally thought it had.

On this subject a writer in the Spectator, of all journals, says: "It is curious that some of the yacht-owning millionaires instead of trying to invent enamels for their ship's bottoms, do not plate them with silver or aluminum, as Stevenson suggested. A thin plate of silver, polished like a spoon, would present about as little friction to the water as can possibly be imagined." Well, it is curious. To me, however, there is something else more however, there is something else more curious. Why was not the bottom of the Thistle blackleaded?

Windmills are a very ancient invention but are not of much practical value in country where fuel is cheap, from the extreme irregularity of the wind upon which they depend. ### MONEY.

NEW YORK, October 18, 11 a. m.—The opening of the stock market was strong throughout this morning, first prices being from 18 to 4 per cent above the closing figures of yesterday, the latter in Missouri Pacific and Kansas & Texas. The Improvement was not maintained, however, though a few stocks made further slight gains in the early dealings, decided weakness was developed throu shout the list and no check was given the decline until late in the hour, when Nothern Facific preferred had lost 24, Union Pacific and Reading, each 14, Northwestern 14 per cent, and others fractional amounts. A slight rally followed, when the market became more quiet, and at 11 o'clock was stady at the decline.

Noon—Money is easy at 4@5 per cent. Bar sliver, 35*s; United States 4's, coupon, 128; do 44's, coupon, 1084; Facific 6's, 121. The stock market was quiet and soon became duli after 11 o'clock, but prices showed a firm tone and further gains were made over 11 o'clock figures. There was little or no feature to the transactions, Reading, St. Paul and Richmond & West Point absorbing most of the interest, though Mannattan rose 2 per cent on small sales. The market became very dull toward noon, and at that time was steady at about opening prices.

21 Hogs—The market opened up comparatively steady with a very good demand from packers and shippers. It was not long, however, before an easier feeling was developed and prices let up a little and the basis for sales were from 5c to 10c lower than the opening prices. Butchers were poorly represented and sales to them were smail at a range from $4.0024.55. To packers sales were at 34 3024.50. The most weakness was shown in butchers' hogs; on account of the small number of buyers present, these grades were afull 10 cents lower, while packers and shippers were only 6 cents off from the prices current the day before. Eastern shippers were well supplied with orders and started out by paying $4.4024.50, but after Chicago advises were the largest for several weeks, and the proportion of good fat hogs very fair.

The water is still receding. Business on the river front is only moderate. The Gen. Tomkins has returned from the llinois River and laid up. The Emma Elliott is in from Grand Tower, and will go out this evening. The United States snagboat Wright has been professionally engaged in the harbor for the last two days.

KEARNEY SHUT OUT.

The New York Police Prohibit the Distribution of His Circulars.

E'y Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, October 18. - Agitator Denis Kear n ey is much exercised over the fact that he is prohibited from distributing in this city a cir-cular containing the following:

"The undersigned desires to arouse the workingmen of the East upon the important

"The undersigned desires to arouse the workingmen of the East upon the important question of how to effectually stop Chinese competition. Since the passage of the prohibition bill the agents of the Chinese Six Companies have secured a practical nullification of the act. Our courts on the Pacific Coast have virtually set aside the intent of Congress in passing the law against Chinese Immigration and I am here to renow the crusade against the Chinese. I begin in the East. In this city there are over 12,000 Chinese. Ten years ago there were but 100. Soon you will find them filling your factories as they do in San Francisco. Awake, therefore, to your true interest, and be at Cooper Institute Tuesday evening, October 18, where I shall illustrate Chinese civilization, and what you can expect if the Mitchell bill (which prohibits Chinese from landing in this country) is not passed by the next Congress. Millions of Chinese will be here in five years."

The agitator yesterday said in regard to the prohibition: "As soon as Mr. Henry George's followers wake up to the fact that their leaders are pro-Chinese they will run away from them as though they had the leprosy. I recognize the lact that all of Mr. George's followers are anti-Chinese but there seems to be an inconsistency somewhere. So far neither Henry George nor Father McGlynn has announced himself on this question, which is the burning one of the hour. Look at the hundreds of Chinese wash houses in this city. Each of these is an opium den, where young girls are levelgled night after night. Any votes that are drawn away from the Democratic party will weaken the anti-Chinese sentiment. That is what I am here to prevent, but that is just what the Chinese Six Companies are trying to accomplish. To-morrow night I propose to draw the line nere to prevent, but that is just what the Chinese Six Companies are trying to accomplish. To-morrow night I propose to draw the line between the pro-Chinese and the anti-Chinese, and as the lead-rs of the Republican party in Congress have been in favor of the Chinese—that is, in favor of flooding the country with the leprous hordes of Asla—I am in favor of consolidating the sentiment against them."

A New Law Affecting the Relations Between Merchants and Buyers.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch. DETROIT, Mich., October 18 .- An innocent looking little law, so small that it slipped through the last Congress without more than passing attention, is about to have a serious effect upon the business of large Eastern merchants and will entirely revolutionize the credit system existing between the East and West. This apparently trifling law limit the effect of this change as already oped in the West, is to cut off the trade

The effect of this change as already developed in the West, is to cut off the trade between Eastern merchants and the Western dealer who buys less than $2,000 of goods and to direct the immense trade into the hands of Western jobbing houses. It is, in short, a plew to Eastern merchants and to Western credit and is a blessing to Western jobbers. The reasons for this are already becoming apparent in the West. Under the old rule an immense credit was built up between the East and West. All that a Western tradesman needed was a letter of introduction from responsible parties and he was assured credit in New York. Even though unknown he was trusted, for the merchant had recourse to the Federal courts, where the law was the same for all the States. Now, however, all bills of goods less than $2,000 cease to have the protection of the Federal collect all such bills before the cross-road Circuit Courts of the West, and must suit his credit to the onerous collection laws of the different States. The difficulties which this makes for the trade are numerous.

An Indian Agent Squelches an Outbreak and Captures Little Pheasant.

Chamberlain, Dak., October 18.—Maj. Anderson, Indian Agent at the Lower Bruic Agency, has just returned from White River, where Little Pheasant and his band drove the surveyors from the reservation. The Major, 135. Umpires—Garniers, 1; Baldwin, 1. Time—135. Umpires—Gaffney and Kedy. promptness and nerve, has squelched by promptness and nerve, has squelched what might have been a serious outbreak, and without the aid of troops on Friday night he took his indian police from Crow Creek and Lower Brule and set out for White River, where he surprised the renegades in bed, capturing Chief Little Pheasant, John Duck, Ponka, Bull Talker and Fool Bear, the ringleaders. He placed the chief in the agency jail and has taken the remaining four to Crow Creek, where they will be put to work for a season. The surveyors have resumed work and everything is now quiet.

"Bennett now picked up the ashen stick, He stood alongside the plate until Umpire Kelly announced three strikes and four balls. The next bail pitched was beautifully over the plate. Bennett hit at it. The bail struck the end of the bat and it went so far in the direction of left field that everybody arose to see it land beyond the outside surrounding line of spectators. O'Neil, however, who seems to know the batting peculiarities of every opponent, was in the crowd of spectators when the bail fell. He had had a hard run, but the balf did not pass through his can't beat them for $\frac{1}{2}$ anywhere. Famous.

hand. Dunlap, like everybody else, thought the hit was for a home run and speeded on his way. He had got half way to third base when o'Nell caucht the bail. O'Nell did not dally. He threw the sphere on a line to Robinson and 'Rob' sent it to first like a flash before Dunlap could get back within twenty feet of the base. This great play created applause, which lasted for several minutes.

With Detroit only three games away from a victory in the series the betting has come to an end, so far as being an expression of confidence. With the Browns beaten whether they have their best or their worst battery in there is nothing for their admirers to pin their faith to. Also the fact that Yon der Ahe has replaced Glesson with Lyons would take considerable glory out of the victory even if the Browns should pick up and win every game straight. The Introduction of an outsider to pull the Browns through leaves the club no longer the champions, and any victory they might gain would not be won by the old Browns. There is a little spasmodic betting now and then when Caruthers is announced to pitch, but it doesn't last long.

PHILADELPHIA BALL GROUNDS, October 17.

The seventh game in the big struggle for the championship of the world was played to day in this city. The special train was run over last night from New York, arriving here about midnight. The world's champion are not feeling over brilliant, but they hope to beat out the Detroit sluggers in the series. The lay-off of Gleason has caused much feeling in the club, and he has the sympathy of all the players. He appreciates his poor work as much as any one, and utters no complaint whatever at the action of the club. With the exception of a few clouds which hung rather low, the day are run up around the park, floated freely in a brisk, warm breeze from the south.

THE BATTING ORDER of the teams in t-day's games was as follows:

For Detroit: Richardson, 1.f.; Ganzel, 1b.; Rowe, s.s.; Thompson, r.f.; White, 3b.; Dunlap, 2b.; Bennett, c.; Hanlon, c.f.; Baiddwn, Brave Bennett.

The Baptist pastors, as announced in yesterday "S Post-Disparch, exploded quite a bomb shell at their meeting yesterday morning. The fase was touched off by one of the visitors, Rev. J. P. Boyce, D. D., a professor in the Theological Seminary in Louisville, Ry. He is one of the leading men in the Southern Baptist denomination and has for years and years held his chair in the seminary. He stands so high that his utterances usually are considered those of his denomination. The subject for discussion was the "Lord's Supper," and his by turning the question over to him and allowing him to give his opinions, which were delivered in the dialogue form. The principle he asserted that the use of fermented wine has the highest authority will no doubt awaken the opposition of the temperance people, especially of the W. C. T. U., which is in the habit of flying at the throat of any preacher who advocates the fermented product.

To the more intelligent portion of our community, which, happily, constitutes the very great majority, the subject of dress is one of intense and paramount interest. To dress well and becomingly may well be ranked among the fine arts. Material, color, cut and style all enter into the calculations, and a happy blending to suit the complexion, build and purse of the one to be clothed must be effected, to make the whole a well-dressed individual. We hear much of cheapness, strong sewing, business methods, manufacturing facilities, and length of time engaged in the business of providing man with artificial covering that should be pleasing to the eve and satisfactory to the purse, but all will be of no avail unless style and taste distinguish the conception of the garments to be worn. It requires careful watching from the loom of the woolen mill through the designers' room, on to the cutter, thence to the tailors, to produce FINE ATTIRE, such as finds a place on our tables, and from us is passed to the wearer. It requires CAREFUL and CONSCIENTIOUS SELLING that the purchaser may be protected and our own reputation upheld. We justly claim to be the only clothiers in St. Louis that watch and scrutinize EVERY DETAIL of our business, from raw material to the completely manufactured article. When you come around we'll explain further.

A Sweeping Demurrer Filed by the Illinois Central Railroad.

CHICAGO, Ill., October 18.-A demurrer was Removed to 17 N. Broadway, Op-and seeks to gain title to all the territory bounded by the Chicago River on the north, Madison streetlon the south, State street on the west and Lake Michigan on the east, except the fractional section used before 1813 as a fort. The railroad's demurrer says that the complainants are not all jointly interested in the subject matter of the suit; that any cause of action accrued more than twenty years before the commencement of the suit; that the railroad has been in possession since 1831, and as no impediment prevented the bringing of the suit the earlier, the statute of limitations estops the complainants and robs the court of jurisdiction. The complainants do not say, either, that the quarter section in dispute was in 1813 in either of the districts then established for the sale of public lands in the Illinois Territory, and that therefore the acts of Congress of 1813 and 1816 do not apply to the case. It is further contended that it is not shown in the petition that John B. Beaublen made known his claim, or preference by delivery of a notice to the Register of the land office in which the premises were situated, nor does it appear that any of the requirements of the acts were compiled with by Beaublen. The right of pre-emption granted by the acts of 1813 and 1816 were limited to public lands, which were open to purchase at private sale, and it does not appear from the bill that
